the individual fall within the meaning of 'goonda', as defined under sec.2(g) of Act 1 of 1986. The cases registered against him reveal that he is habituated to willful destruction of pristine Red Sander Forests and by his illegal activities, he has not only been corroding the rare species of pristine red sander and national wealth, but also leading to disturbance of the current life of community and disturbing the tranquility of the society. In catena of decisions, the Hon'ble Courts held that 'any acts or attempt to illegal cutting of red sander trees and smuggling the timber, would certainly have its impact on the public order'.
